Disclaimer

While we hope that you find materials on the Groom Law Group website to be informative, please note that all of these materials are provided to readers for informational purposes only and you may not rely on this information as legal or any other advice to you on any matter. These materials may not reflect the most current legal developments and should in no way be taken as an indication of future legal results. Further, our transmission of information on this website is not intended to create, and your receipt of this information does not create, an attorney-client relationship between Groom Law Group and you. Accordingly, you should not act on any information provided without consulting legal counsel.

Please keep in mind that merely contacting us (whether by email, telephone, regular mail or otherwise) will not establish an attorney-client relationship. We cannot represent any person until we confirm that there would not be a conflict of interest and that we are otherwise able to accept an engagement. Therefore, please do not send us any confidential information or documents until we have established an attorney-client relationship in writing because your information or documents will not be protected as privileged information. Please also note that any information that you provide to us by email may not be secure.

To comply with U.S. Treasury Regulations, we also inform you that, unless expressly stated otherwise, any tax advice contained in website materials is not intended to be used and cannot be used by any taxpayer to avoid penalties under the Internal Revenue Code, and such advice cannot be quoted or referenced to promote or market to another party any transaction or matter addressed in this communication.
