Groom principal and co-chair of the firm's litigation group, William Delany, was featured in the Bloomberg Law article, "High Court's Cornell Ruling Stands to Supercharge 401(k) Suits," where he discussed the potential impact of the Supreme Court's decision on the future of ERISA litigation and the broader retirement plan landscape.

"They should push toward meaningful, prophylactic measures and legislative solutions or plan sponsors, service providers, and other regulated entities will be overwhelmed by litigation, and innovation will be stymied," said Delany.
