Groom is ranked in the Employee Benefits & Executive Compensation, ERISA Litigation, and Healthcare categories, and a number of Groom attorneys have received individual rankings and highly favorable accolades from client. Groom also retained the sole top ranking in Washington, D.C. for Employee Benefits & Executive Compensation for the 18th consecutive year.

Specializing in all aspects of benefits, health and retirement law, Groom was founded in the wake of a landmark regulatory development—the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974. Today, with over 90 attorneys practicing in the field, Groom has the largest ERISA and benefits practice in the United States, solving complicated legal issues for a variety of clients in finance, retirement, health care, and the public sector. In addition, as informed by decades of experience, Groom's widely-recognized litigation practice maneuvers the complex, dynamic landscape of employer, health, and pension-related litigation to successfully represent clients in federal and state courts, arbitrations, and government investigations across the country.

Chambers praises Groom as being “highly sought after for its well-established connections to governmental entities and its specialized expertise in matters such as executive compensation, fiduciary responsibility, and plan funding and restructuring,” adding that, “The Groom team offers a wealth of experience with regulatory issues affecting plans, including Department of Labor investigations.”
