

News

The Washington Post Spoke With Seth Perretta on Barriers Faced With Plan Coverage of Abortions

ATTORNEYS & PROFESSIONALS

Seth Perretta

sperretta@groom.com

202-861-6335

PUBLISHED

07/02/2022

SOURCE

The Washington Post

SERVICES

- Health & Welfare Programs
- Federal Insurance Regulation

Groom principal Seth Perretta was quoted in The Washington Post article, “Companies offer to help employees seeking abortions. It’ll be tricky,” which explored the myriad of potential financial and legal risks and barriers employers face in attempting to cover, or subsidize travel for, abortions their employees may seek across state lines.

“This is an interesting concept for employers because they’ve never been in a situation before where they had to worry that in administering their group health plans, their employees, officers or directors could face criminal liability,” said Perretta.

To read the article, click here.